Last week complaint, was made against John Bator, of South Branch, as disorderly, and he was arrested. Circumstances pointed toward insanity, and the criminal charge was withdrawn, and a commission ordered by Judge of Probate Batterson, consisting of Drs. Traver and Davis to decide that question. He being judged insane, was ordered to the asylum at Traverse City, where he was conducted by Sheriff McCullough. He has no family, and has lived alone on his homestead for the past four years.

The following law relative to planting shade trees along the highway should be taken advantage of by all our citizens:

Sec. 2. "Any person planting shade trees along the highway adjacent to property owned or occupied by such person, shall be entitled to be credited twenty-five cents upon his highway tax for every tree so planted, but not to exceed the aggregate twenty-five per cent of such person's highway tax in any one year."

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Mitchell have returned from their visit to St. Clair County, which proved a sad one to both. Mrs. M. Comer, sister of Mrs. Mitchell was dead when they arrived, and soon after her funeral, they were called to the home of Mr. John Mitchell, in the same county, who died on the Thursday following. Thus are families broken up by the hand of death.

The good advice in the following extract from the Osceola Outline, could be well given in this county:

About 470 farms in this county are mortgaged at 8 to 10 per cent, for $100,000, the interest for which goes mostly outside of the county. Probably one-fourth of the mortgages will be foreclosed, and the farmers left without homes. Most of the mortgagors could have squeezed through had they not borrowed money at all. The market for buying a few luxuries, or an extra-train or wagon, with somebody else's money, is growing alarmingly common. Would it not be well to call a halt—to work a little harder, earlier and later, and save the home-stand from having a mortgage plastered on it. Mr. farmer, do not be too fast to borrow money on mortgage. You do not know what may happen before your payment day comes. Struggle along in some way, and don't mortgage the home on any account, unless you see a sure thing to compass the payment and make at least a good speculation for yourself as you do for your mortgagee; especially as you to keep up all the taxes and expenses and costs.

Sudden Death.

Our citizens were startled last Thursday by the report of the sudden death of Martin Christenson. He had been sick for several weeks, but was to all appearance convalescent, and had been down town three or four times, so that all thought of danger had passed from the minds of his family and friends. On the afternoon of that day he fainted in the store of Joseph & Pinkous, but rallied perfectly and seemed none the worse after going home. He sat at the table with his family and ate quite heartily, but immediately after fainted, and by the time he was got onto the lounge had expired.

He leaves a wife and one child, who will receive the sympathy of all. Two of his children died of diphtheria this spring, leaving the mother now doubly bereaved.

Agricultural Society.

A meeting of the farmers of Crawford County, held at the Grayling Town Hall April 21st was called to order by H. Head of South Branch and W. C. Johnson elected chairman, and O. Cahner secretary.

On motion of Mr. Evans that we proceed to the organization of an agricultural society, a full discussion was held, and the opinion seemed unanimous for the immediate organization of such society, and the motion prevailed.

It was then moved and carried that the officers elect, consist of a president, secretary, treasurer and one director of each township.

A. J. Rose was elected president, O. J. Bell secretary, and N. H. Evans treasurer.

Directors.
Ball—Chas. Jackson,
South Branch—H. Head,
Centre Plains—G. W. Love,
Beaver Creek—J. P. Hanna,
Grayling—J. Marsh,

On motion it was resolved that our next meeting be subject to the call of the president and secretary.

The secretary was instructed to notify the directors of the time of the next meeting through the AVONMOUTH and that they are expected to present by laws, at that time for the future government of the society.

Adjourned subject to call.
W. C. JOHNSON,
Chairman.

Higgins Lake No. 7a.

Last Friday morning between 1 and 2 o'clock a thunder storm visited Higgins Lake. Two houses were struck by lightning and the inmates shocked. At the residence of Frank Troop the lightning passed down the stovepipe and tore its way through the floor to the south window, upsetting everything in its course. Pieces of floor are still sticking in the ceiling. The family were in bed and Mr. Troop received such a severe shock that it was with difficulty that his wife, who was but slightly affected, could revive him. The children escaped unharmed.

About 25 rods away is the residence of L. H. Richards and here also a bolt came down the stovepipe and tore through the house, shocking Mr. Richards and J. H. Gallagher, who was staying there with Mr. Richard whose wife was absent attending a sick brother. Mr. Gallagher was most affected and has not yet fully recovered.—Roscommon News.

Our little community has passed through unusual excitements within the last ten days. During the night of Saturday the 16th inst, sundry chicken roosts were visited by sneak thieves, and about a dozen of their feathered occupants were confiscated. The next day they were traced to a house in the western part of our village, that has acquired an unenviable reputation and where sundry persons of the baser sort have assembled, and were spending the night in a disorderly manner. It was found that this gang received, cooked and ate the chickens. Warrants were promptly issued by Justice Barker on Monday morning and two of the thieves were brought in during the day. They plead guilty and were promptly fined. The rest of the gang were traced to a lumber camp just south of here. On the approach of the officers they fled to the woods and swamps whence they were pursued that and the next day, but proved more fleet and cunning than their pursuers, they made good their escape.

One of the men fined made such threats against one of the witnesses that he was arrested, and placed in charge of a constable for the night. While the constable slept he arose with a pocket knife removed the lock from the door and left for parts unknown.

On the following Thursday evening a company of disorderlies came from Grayling on the evening train with heads and pockets full of whiskey. They proceeded to the residence of our deputy sheriff, and after filling him with the same vile compound, they spent the night in such wild disorder that one of them, a citizen of Maple Forest, was arrested in the morning on charge of being drunk and disorderly and was promptly fined by Justice Barker.

The best sentiment of our people have had enough of these drunken disorderlies brawls and a firm determination is expressed to sit down hard on all such demonstrations in future and that class of disorderlies had better either omit entirely that kind of recreations or go elsewhere to enjoy them, for they will not be received here with favor.

WASHINGTON.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has received two petitions—one from the Order of Railway Conductors, and the other from the Traders and Travelers Union—which are representative of a large number of similar petitions, asking the board for its construction of the provisions of the "act to regulate commerce" as applied to the various points at which the provisions touch the customs of the past.

The secession of the province of Nova Scotia from the Dominion Confederation is again strongly agitated.

FOREIGN.

The following cablegram from Rome has been received at New York: "The Pope has decided the question of the Knights of Labor in favor of that organization. The decision will stand so long as the present method in furthering their aims prevails. The document of Cardinal Gibbons has been intended. The Pope further decided that a canon, where a mandament had been issued against the knights, the members of the order shall receive absolution on promise of obedience to future decisions of the Holy See. If the knights identify themselves with the theories now being disseminated by certain agitators, this decision in their favor will be revoked."

The Khan of Bokhara discovered that his ministers had been plotting against him for encouraging the Russian advance, contrary to his father's wishes. He accordingly beheaded several of them. The others fled.

The trial of twenty-four socialists who were charged with being members of a legal secret society has just been concluded at Posen, Germany. Nine of them were convicted and sentenced to various short terms of imprisonment.

POLITICAL.

The Wisconsin Legislature, which has just adjourned, made appropriations aggregating about $918,000.

A large number of disgruntled Democratic politicians, says the New York Times, have wisely concluded that the next Presidential nomination by the party will be worth very little if not given to Mr. Cleveland.

The Legislature of West Virginia has commenced an extra session. Balloting for Senator will begin on May 3.

Appointments by the President: Samuel P. Bigelow of New Jersey, to be District Attorney for the District of New Jersey; Henry E. Morrill of Illinois, to be United States Consul at Chennai.

The New York Assembly has passed a bill to permit betting on race-tracks, 6 per cent. of the gross receipts for admission to be paid to the State Comptroller, to be disbursed for prizes on live stock.

REGULATING THE RAILROADS.

Congressman Payson is alleged to have said that the railroads appear to have captured the Interstate Commission, the same as they capture everything.

E. M. Herrick, President of the Pacific Mills Lumber Company, and E. C. Williams, President of the Railroad Manufacturing Association of San Francisco, have telegraphed the Interstate Commerce Commission as follows: "Our two corporations, comprising $2,000,000 of capital, and about $300,000,000 capital, have addressed you by mail stating that our Eastern business has been entirely destroyed by the operation of the law, and asking your intervention in our behalf. Meanwhile you allow the roads over which we have been operating to give out rates, and so revive our business with the East, provided the rate is open to all."

A. Lusk & Co., of San Francisco, have telegraphed: "The fruit interests of this State, which are of great and growing importance, are seriously jeopardized by the workings of the interstate commerce bill, inasmuch as this interest can not avail itself of water competition, we respectfully ask that section 4 be suspended, that these interests be not entirely paralyzed and great loss occur."

The manager of a Chicago manufacturing house, in a letter to the Interstate Commerce Commission, complains that he is now compelled to pay his fares, whereas formerly he rode upon a pass. He says that section 22 be suspended for the Chicago & Northwestern Road.

Mr. Taft presented a communication to the Interstate Commission, from Sulton & Co.'s dispatch line, setting forth that the action of the transcontinental roads toward the shipping interest via Cape Horn has been of the most violent nature. They had exerted every effort to annihilate the shipping interest of the country. They had taken the long-haul traffic at a loss, which they must make up from charges on the short-haul traffic. Complaints against unjust discrimination and excessive rates were received from several dairymen of Orange County, New York, and milling firms of Atchison, Kan.

J. Searles, Jr., representing the Eastern sugar refiners, entered a protest against granting the petition of the Hawaiian sugar refiners, and showed how, by a combination with the railroads, San Francisco refiners could lay this foreign commodity down in New York at prices their Eastern competitors could not meet. Ralph W. Thatcher, a miller of Albany, N. Y., told the Commission he had a contract for certain favorable terms of transportation, under which he had built an elevator. The Delaware and Hudson Canal Company refused to carry out the contract since the interstate law went into effect, and his business was at a standstill.

The company he wanted to order directing the company to build the elevator. A letter from Minneapolis, Minn., writes that for the last five years the people of that vicinity have been paying their fares to the conductors, thereby making a goodly saving. Suddenly the conductors have experienced a change of heart, and are charging schedule rates, evidently fearing the effect of the new law. He asks the aid of the commission for a return to the old system. Justice, Batesman & Co., wool merchants of Philadelphia, in a letter protest against suspending Section four as regards transcontinental lines.

They say the protest against the section comes from parties who have been enjoying great benefits from cut rates, and instance the case of wool. Last year San Francisco merchants had a rate of 50 cents per 100 pounds, while parties several hundred miles farther east had to pay $3 to $4.50.

There is wool, they say, now in Philadelphia, grown in Montana, which the railroads forced to be sent thence via San Francisco, making a haul of 4,000 miles, while if shipped direct it would have traveled only 2,000 miles. The object of the discrimination was to give the San Francisco merchants an opportunity to exact toll before it reached its natural destination.

John T. Fernandez and Henry Bernard, members of a New Orleans fencing club, had a friendly set-to with fella. The button of Bernard's waistcoat was broken off during the encounter, and a sudden thrust drove the point of the blade into Fernandez's brain, entering below the left eye. The two leaders of the conspiracy that led to the deposition of Prince Alexander of Bulgaria have been released from prison.

Six residents of St. Petersburg have been sentenced to death for complicity in the plot that resulted in the death of the Emperor.

It is officially stated in London that Lord Salisbury, in the dispatch sent to Washington March 24, said that the British Government, understanding the action of the United States in denouncing the fishery articles of the treaty of Washington to be a great degree the result of disappointment at being called upon to pay $1,100,000 under the Halifax fisheries award, offers to revert to the old condition of affairs without pecuniary indemnity.

The London Times pronounces Lord Salisbury's offer to settle the fisheries question "generous and almost Quixotic."

Throughout France much excitement prevails because of the arrest of a special French commissary by German officials on the frontier near Metz. In Paris stocks were unfavorably affected by the announcement.

The number of emigrants from Germany who passed through Hamburg, Bremen, and Stettin during the year 1888 was 24,671, a decrease of over 20,000 from the previous year, when 83,000 persons left the empire.

The National Council of Administration of the Grand Army of the Republic has adopted resolutions approving of the order of General Fairchild requesting posts not to make an official expression of opinion on the subject of pension legislation by Congress.

The total amount of trade dollars redeemed to date is $5,431,000.

The Illinois House has passed a bill to prohibit idling of insane persons, and inmates of prisons from marrying.

The grand jury at Ozark, Mo., has indicted eleven of the Dink-Knoblars for murder.

A natural gas company, with a capital of $250,000, has been organized at St. Joseph, Mich., where boring will commence as soon as a contractor can be found.

A company composed of pupils of the Chicago Conservatory is playing this week at McVicker's Theater, Chicago, and the local press is unflinching in its praise of their work. The Morning News says: "No unprejudiced observer can help admitting that the work of these young people is a vast improvement on that of many professional companies which ask the support of theater-goers. From what we have seen of the company's work we can freely say that it can be submitted candidly as a counter-attraction to anything else in the city."

A varied repertoire has been selected, and it is chosen with the idea of bringing out the best material that exists among the pupils of the school.

Root, Hog, or Die.

A Sow was contentedly occupying her sty, although living in a great litter, when a Wolf, who had not tasted roast pig in a long time, came along and endeavored to strike up an acquaintance. Getting up on his hind legs and looking over into the sty, he said: "Good morning, Mrs. Sow; I hope you are well."

"Good morning, Mr. Wolf," replied Mrs. S., backing up in a position to go to war, if necessary. "Then the Wolf inquired after the health of her interesting family, asked if they had had the measles, trichina, hog-cholera, and other infantile diseases. He always liked pigs, he said—nice, tender little pigs. They seemed to get right at the inside of him, as he said. He had a great fondness for them, and he collected the last pork-chop he had had."

"I declare," continued the Wolf, looking around admiringly, "you have comfortable quarters here. There is a popular prejudice against sties among ignorant and unthinking, yet a sty is a good deal in the eye, after all. It depends on how you look at it. I would really like to inspect your charming cottage a little closer," and the Wolf, who had a hold upon the top board of the sty already, began to draw himself up and elevate his right leg, preparatory to climbing over.

"No, you don't!" said the Sow, pushing him back. "We are not receiving calls to-day."

"But," remonstrated the Wolf, maintaining his position by inserting a claw in a convenient knot-hole, "your household duties confine you to the house a good deal, and it is telling on you. Now, if you want to go around a little, calling on the neighbors, I will engage to take good care of your family while you are away. You needn't trouble yourself to prepare dinner for me, since a very little will do. I am no hog."

"No, you are not. You are a Wolf, though, and an honest pig-sty is no place for a Wolf. So if you don't get, I'll squeal on you."

Don't Neglect-Mor Mamma.

The saving grace of the young American, says a writer in Harper's Bazar, is his respect for women. That is a national religion. A young American rarely passes a lady on the street, or a hotel without raising his hat, or rises when she enters a room, and he assists her across a muddy street. Herein he is in line with the young Frenchman of the period.

But in conventional breeding the foreigner has the advantage. The young Frenchman understands that he must be polite to the mother before the daughter. In this respect (and the blame is in the mothers who have not commanded it) the young American is often at fault in society, if not in the street.

A card should never be left by a young gentleman for a young lady, but a card should be left for her mother. He should inquire of the older lady first, and if possible the mother should receive him. He should, if the mother invite him to a ball, show her some attention; if she has a receipt on hand, he should call on that day. He should show her that he regards her as the person of the house, and should not allow her to feel herself neglected at a public ball where he has been dancing with her daughter. In this respect the young man of the period is very faulty. A man who treats the parents of the girl whom he likes with respect is apt to have their assistance if he hopes to win her. He must remember, of course, that invitation to a ball must always come from the mother. Such at least is the etiquette of New York society.

A Paradise for Tramps.

The Karg gas well was discovered in Findlay, Ohio, about fifty miles south of Toledo, on Jan. 20, 1886. The gas was conducted forty-eight feet above the ground, and was used for lighting pipes, and when lighted the flame rose from twenty to thirty feet above the pipe. It is difficult to exaggerate the magnificent and impressive effect of this burning well at night. The noise of the escaping gas is like the roar of Niagara. The whole town is brightly illuminated by the light of the flame.

The Bunker was a small, low, round, one-story building, built of brick, and was used for storing coal. It was situated on a hill, and the gas well was located just below it.
